Relationships

Author : Ann Harth

It is natural to want to feel cared for, and to care for others. We care for our families, our friends, even our pets! But what is a good relationship?

A good relationship is one where you feel safe and supported; where you enjoy the thing you have in common and respect the differences. It may last a lifetime. It can get you through bad times as well as good. But not all relationships are positive. You need to recognize and act when peer pressure influences you to act in ways that make you feel uncomfortable.

Relationships explores some common types of relationships and how to make them stronger.
